SPEAKER BIOGRAPHY

Steve Mitchell

Steve Mitchell is a fellow of the UK Institute of Acoustics and the chairman of Institute’s Environmental Noise Group. He is closely involved in evolving UK noise policy. Steve worked for the Civil Aviation Authority’s Environmental Research and Consultancy Department (ERCD) for two years from 1996 to 1997 and has since been involved in airport noise management, assessing noise from 40 airports, and undertaking three major airport noise research projects for the European Commission.

Steve worked for Environmental Resources Management (ERM), a global provider of Environmental Health and Safety consultancy services, for 29 years where he lead a global acoustics team assessing the impacts of noise and vibration from projects all over the world, before setting up his own company Mitchell Environmental Ltd (MEL) in September 2020.

Steve has been retained by Gatwick Airport Ltd as an advisor on air noise since 2014, contributing to or managing numerous noise impact and mitigation studies for the airport and the Noise Management Board, most recently assessing impacts for the Northern Runway Development Consent Order application.
